Hi all,

The Norwegian Institute for Nature Research (NINA) has an open position for permanent researcher/technician to work on freshwater benthic invertebrates. Candidates with only MSc are eligible, though a PhD may be a plus. This position will replace our current expert on benthic invertebrates who retires at the end of the year. Unfortunately the announcement is in Norwegian only. Applications can be in English, but mastering of a Scandinavian language is desired as focus will be on monitoring and environmental assessment activities in Norway.

The candidate can choose to be located in any of the NINA departments (Oslo, Trondheim, Bergen, Lillehammer, or Tromsø). Deadline for application is 15th November.

https://www.nina.no/Aktuelt/Nyhetsartikkel/ArticleId/5096/Forsker-innen-bunndyr-i-ferskvann-ved-NINA

Best regards,

André

***************

André Frainer

Research Scientist at the Norwegian Institute for Nature Research (NINA)
Guest researcher at UiT The Arctic University of Norway
Tromsø, Norway